Mind-Body Medicine

“For many patient groups, research has shown that relatively brief and inexpensive mind-body interventions can improve the patient’s recovery process, speed healing, shorten inpatients stays, and reduce the cost of treatment” (Moss, 2002, p. 4)

Mindfulness

“Paying attention on purpose, in the present moment, and nonjudgmentally, to the unfolding of experience moment to moment.” –John Kabat-Zinn.

Soft-Belly Breathing Exercise

Now you may place your hands on your belly if you like to bring your awareness to your belly rising and filling with air as you breath in and deflating as you breath out. Sit quietly with eyes closed if you feel comfortable or with a soft gaze downward. Breathe slowly and deeply, in through your nose and out through your mouth. Allow your belly to be soft, expanding on the in breath and relaxing on the out breath. You may say to yourself, “soft” as you breathe in and “belly” as you breathe out. When thoughts come, let them come, and let them go, as a wave might flow in from the sea and flow out again...returning your mind to “soft...belly”. Sometimes I like to say the words peace as I breathe in; imagining a sense of peace coming in with each breath and love as I breath out, envisioning sending love out with each breath. And now when you are ready allow your attention to return to the room.

Imagery Script

Purpose: Helps access subconscious information and guidance; Fosters trust in one's own inner wisdom

Lie or sit in a comfortable position. Allow your eyes to close if you are comfortable, or stare with a soft gaze downward. Feel your body against the floor or the chair. Allow your body to soften and just let yourself be. And now allow your awareness to move to your breath. Aware of the in-breath...Aware of the out-breath...Breathing in, feeling calm... breathing out, at peace, preparing to go on a mental journey. Each breath allows you to become more and more relaxed and comfortable.... Let any outside sounds only serve to allow you to go deeper inside. A reminder of how good it is to leave the noise and stress of the outside world and journey into the quiet and peace of your own inner world.... As you breathe, feel the tension drain from your body, leaving you relaxed and at peace. As you sink deeper into the warmth and safety of your inner world, know that there is no right way to do this process.... Anything that comes up for you or presents itself is absolutely perfect. Take another deep breath and let go as you exhale....

Now I would like you to see yourself in a very special place...it could be a real place – a place you may actually have been – a beautiful spot in nature or a comforting place in your own home. Your special place may be an imaginary place – a place in fairy tales – indoors or outdoors – it doesn't really matter. Should more than one place come to mind, allow yourself to stay with one of them.

The only thing that matters is that it is a place in which you are completely comfortable and at ease.... You feel comfortable and at ease. Appreciate this scene with all of your senses. Hear the sounds – smell the aromas, feel the air as it caresses your skin – experience the ground securely under you – touch and feel the whole environment that you are in.

*Notice what you are wearing Notice what you have on your feet
What time of year it is, what time of day
How old you are*

*Notice whether you are alone or with another person or people
Notice the colors that surround you
What is the temperature? Is it warm? Is it cold?
Notice the qualities of the place that make it special and comfortable.*

And look around you to see if there is anything else that would make this place more comfortable for you.... Perhaps something that you need to remove from the place or something you need to bring in.... And then notice how your body feels in this place...Enjoy being in this place for a few more moments, having the sense that it is longer.

Now give thanks, knowing that you can return to this special place whenever you like. Know that you will take some of the calm and peaceful feeling from this place back with you. And when you are ready...at your own pace... let your breathing deepen.... Very gradually let the awareness of your body against the chair return...Bring yourself back slowly and comfortably.... And now when you are ready...gently open your eyes with a smile on your face.

You cannot always control what goes on outside. But you can always control what goes on inside. ~Wayne W. Dyer

The Lilies

The lilies were growing in the field.

There appeared to be an abundance of them this year.

Or perhaps I just noticed them more than I had in the past.

Gradually,
I was beginning to see beauty
where before I had only seen sorrow.

Slowly,
I was beginning to hear music
where before I had only heard cries.

But always I knew,
I knew that what I saw
and what I heard was a message-
A message from my Self to my self.

That message told me how I really felt what I really thought who I really was.

I could pretend to be happy
but my Self knew if I was crying inside.

I could pretend to understand but my Self knew if I was confused.

I could pretend to listen to others
But I knew that if I couldn't hear my Self there was no one else to listen to.

And so I waited.
Soon the lilies will be in bloom.

Then I will know that at last I am Home.
Home~ inside my Self.
